1910 Hugo's Fine Soils Some of the leading owners of the property at Hugo got together recently and discussed the conditions of soil in their neighborhood and the crops best adapted to them. It was finally decided to secure the services of Professor O'Gara, the United States soil expert, and get his opinions on this important subject., so as to enable them to commence right. Professor O'Gara made the examination and gave his report, in which he says that apples, pears, peaches, cherries, and grapes will grow to perfection in that locality and that all of them would be profitable crops.<sup>1</sup>

These owners were: W. Soloman. D. C. Abrams, Robert Randolph, Wm. McKenzie, S. Sehorn, John Peterson, John R. Beegle. S. S. Beveridge, Dr. F. E. Holgate, H. E. Martin, J. M. Hall, Robert Crockett, Thomas H. Ahern, and D. H. Heller. The action of the Hugo land owners is an object lesson for the many who are clearing and planting lands in this country.<sup>1</sup>

W. Soloman would take the lesson to heart and developed a large peach orchard on approximately 20 - 30 acres of land.

The Douglas parcel was part of the old Rowe homestead (see 1939 aerial
